
From management of fish to management of fisheries

Emerging experiences with co-management in the World Bank

Lars T. Soeftestad

EDIEN, The World Bank

IASCP conference, Vancouver, Canada, 10-14 June 1998

Framework and context

- ▼ Traditional knowledge
- ▼ Political ecology & institutional analysis
- ▼ Stakeholder identification / analysis and participation
- ▼ State vs. civil society

Cases - overview

- ▼ Phase 1 - 1970s
 - ▼ High seas, capital intensive, large, one sector, prod. oriented, hardware, vertically integrated
- ▼ Phase 2 - 1980s
 - ▼ Little activity
- ▼ Phase 3 - 1990s
 - ▼ Coastal, not capital intensive, smaller, multiple sectors, capacity building, software, horizontal integrated

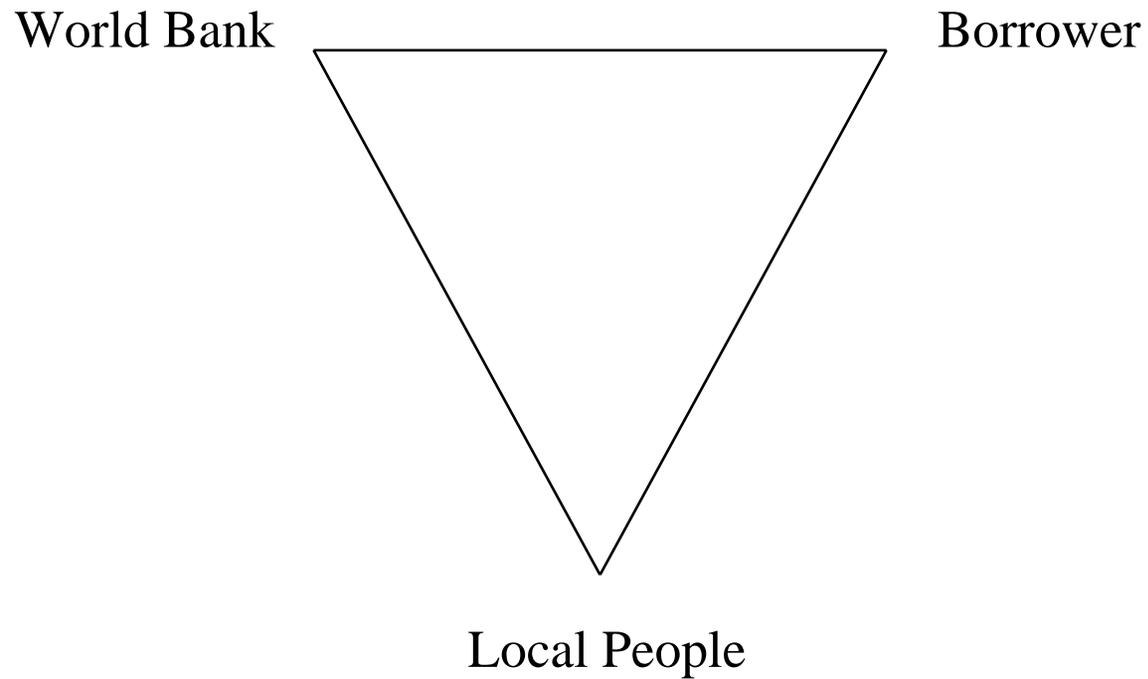

Cases - presentation

- ▼ Cases
 - ▼ Bangladesh, Ghana, Yemen
- ▼ Framework
 - ▼ Issues, aspects of co-management
 - ▼ State vs. civil society

Analysis

- ▼ Country analysis: macro- and micro level
- ▼ The state
- ▼ Civil society
 - ▼ Traditional basis
 - ▼ Modern basis

Model - 1

Model - 2

The state

Weak

Strong

Weak

Yemen?

Civil society

Strong

Bangladesh

Ghana

Conclusions

- ▼ Co-management as a process
- ▼ Means and goals
- ▼ Comparative advantages
- ▼ A continuum of co-management models, involving different stakeholders, with different arrangements